Our ReBIRTHday

Advent is the first season of each liturgical year and must set the tone for the rest of the year. The theme of Advent is finding the sacred in the everyday. We remind ourselves about the spiritual life all around us with everyday things. We use light and water, candles and bread, music and wine, words and computers to remember. And it is why when we decorate; with all the bells and whistles we are reminded everywhere we look that Christmas is coming.

But often we lose sight of the person who is coming because of the season, like expectant parents who so busy themselves with getting all sorts of things in place for the birth of their child that they do not retreat into the silence and stillness and awe that a baby is very much alive and growing within that hushed darkness of a now sacred womb.

In the middle of a great darkness, we begin to see light. And here is why Advent is considered to be a Penitential Season. When asked what is the reason for the season, we respond: Jesus. But why did He come? So that He could have the world celebrate His birthday each year?

That reason is, as Charles Wesley wrote back in 1739, "God and sinners reconciled." Which means that Advent and Christmas have to grapple with sin and conversion. As we pray in the Creed each week, "For us men and for our salvation He came down from heaven, and by the Holy Spirit was incarnate of the Virgin Mary, and became man."

Salvation implies something to be saved from, and we are saved from the horrors of sin and the terrors of dying and death. Therefore, a fruitful Advent should include a good Confession, which also implies penance. And what might some forms of penance be this Season?

Keep in mind, Christmas is not the height of joy for every person and family, especially if during the year loved ones have passed or people have been diagnosed with certain illnesses. As Thanksgiving reminded us, many families have to scrape together two nickels to afford food let alone gifts for others. We recognize the many in war-torn areas whose primary gift they pray for this Christmas is no more gun fire, no more explosions, no more destruction, no more killing. So, rather than stockpiling Christmas presents beneath that Christmas Tree Farm in our houses, how do we make ourselves living, giving Christmas Trees for others?

Advent is a gift. The Church gives us the time and space needed to prepare our souls for the coming celebration of the Incarnation and the coming of Christ at the end of time. The world makes this a challenge. It can be hard to fast when one is invited to countless parties. It can be hard to find time for additional prayer when there is so much pressure to "get ready for the holidays." It can be hard to anticipate the Christmas feast when the world is already feasting.

Penance amidst celebration is a challenge. It sounds like a paradox. But isn't that Catholicism? Isn't our penance always mixed with celebration? Isn't sorrow for our sins always mixed with joy over God's forgiveness? Don't we mourn with the hope of resurrection? Don't we fast precisely so we can better enjoy the feast?

Each year, we remind ourselves there is light in the darkness. We light another candle each week of Advent. The light grows in the darkness each week, reminding us the sacred is with us every day. But it is not enough to light the candle, we must live its light that week, be that candle for others.

The first candle is the prophet's Candle: Hope. As Christ was sent into this world to bring hope, we too have been sent...conceived...born...and live; are our lives a testament to hope, that being in this world, I truly make it a better place?

Second Candle: The Bethlehem Candle: Faith. Bethlehem means House of Bread. Do I receive the Bread of Life each week? And doing so, with Christ fully present within me, like He was in Mary's womb that first Advent— though more so in my body because He is risen— do I bring the love of Christ to others wherever my feet happen to fall, as Mary did visiting her Cousins Elizabeth and Zechariah? Advent, then, is being, more so than ever, more mindful and heartfelt of others, beginning with the gift of family and friendship...and reconciling where it is needed.

Third Candle: Pink. Joy. Despite all that might be wrong in the world, despite all the pain and sorrow there may be in each of our lives, anticipating the birth of a child is meant to bring joy. Advent is a time of rebirth, not only finding and reclaiming the joy that is all around and within us, but, by being that joy for others, that comfort, that consolation, that peace, as joy-filled an event as your birth was, our rebirth should be even more so.

Fourth Candle: The Angel's Candle. Peace. Do we not begin each Mass being offered the peace of Christ, then during the Mass exchange the sign of peace? As we pray in the Gloria first announced by an Angel that first Christmas: "Glory to God in the Highest and peace to His people on earth."

Attending Mass, we receive less a feeling and fully the person Jesus Christ. Are parents simply content with the announcement a child is to be born to them or is their preference to have that child in their arms pressed to their hearts? In Holy Communion, Christ is pressed to our entire body...the two gloriously becoming one flesh.

Advent is all about reminding us, at the beginning of each New Year, how spiritual life infuses our everyday lives. Taking time to listen and pay attention, we remember how sacred everyday life is...how sacred and saved each of our lives are.

Giving Tuesday—Help St. Rose School Bloom!

This #GivingTuesday, December 2, we invite our parish family to support the mission of St. Rose School. Our Catholic education is built on the foundation of tuition, but tuition alone does not cover the full cost of educating each child. In order to keep tuition as affordable as possible and to welcome more students through our doors, we work each year to raise an additional $150,000.

Please prayerfully consider making a Giving Tuesday donation to St. Rose School. Your gift helps our students continue to bloom in mind, heart, and soul through strong academics, faith formation, and a nurturing community.

Thank you for supporting the children and the future of our parish!

For more information about attending St. Rose School, visit www.stroseschool.com or call 203-426-5102.
